Student organizations are a tool for leadership development and to assist students with connecting to the social and academic learning community. The student governing bodies and organizations of Pima Community College (“College”) are authorized by the College’s Governing Board to organize; establish bylaws, constitutions, or charters; and to establish procedures for student clubs, all in alignment with applicable College policies and the Student Code of Conduct. The authority of student organizations is subject to any standards or parameters set by the College’s Governing Board.

The College shall offer students a variety of student organizations that encourage personal, cultural, intellectual, social, and professional growth opportunities. The Governing Board delegates to the Chancellor or designee the responsibility for working with student government and student organizations to develop student activities and programs consistent with this Board Policy.
