Colleagues,

I would like to update you on our progress to fill three critical administrative positions: provost and the presidencies of our Downtown and Community campuses.

The second round of interviews and forums for the presidential candidates was completed Friday. Once again, these opportunities to meet and question the candidates proved to be very informative.

As soon as background and reference checks for all candidates are completed, I will meet with the search committees for the presidencies and provost, and together we will evaluate the candidates. The ultimate objective in this collaborative process is to find the right people who can provide leadership during the challenging and exciting times ahead.

We hope to announce the finalist for each position soon, and to have the three posts filled on or close to July 1. As we move forward, please look for updates via email as well as on the College homepage and Media Center.

Lee D. Lambert,

Chancellor
