Colleagues,

I am pleased to announce that Bruce Moses is the College’s Assistant Vice Chancellor for Accreditation.

The College understands the critical role that accreditation plays in the assessment of educational institutions. Accreditation is an important indication for current students, prospective students and the community that a college or university is performing acceptably now and has the capacity to thrive in the future.

The new position of Assistant Vice Chancellor for Accreditation provides the leadership to fulfill this critical function. It is necessary for PCC to be in compliance with accreditors at the College-wide and specialized-program level. Additionally, we must conform to state, regional and federal laws and regulations.

Bruce’s expertise and experience make him an ideal person for the position. He has a deep administrative and leadership background in assessment, planning, institutional effectiveness and research, and has consulted with leadership teams at the community college and university level. Since November 2014 he has been working with City Colleges of Chicago on compliance and accreditation. He was a Research Study Coordinator with the Northwestern University Scientific Careers Research and Development Group, evaluating the University of California-San Francisco’s and University of California-Davis’ graduate student internship programs.

He has been a peer reviewer for the Higher Learning Commission since 2007, serving in a variety of capacities, including consultant, speaker, trainer and facilitator. He is familiar with Arizona, having served as Associate Vice President, Planning and Institutional Effectiveness, at Central Arizona College in Coolidge.

Bruce is an Ed. D. candidate in Community College Leadership at Ferris State University in Michigan, and expects to earn his degree in May 2016. Bruce has a Master of Arts, Educational Leadership in Higher Education (Cum Laude); a Bachelor of Science, Administrative Management (Cum Laude); and a Bachelor of Business Administration, Finance, all from Eastern Michigan University.

Bruce will report to the Provost. His first day on the job will be March 2. Please join me in welcoming Bruce to PCC.

Lee D. Lambert,
Chancellor
