Pima Community College
Tucson, AZ
Primarily certificate granting
Undergraduate enrollment: 30,082

Costs

What does it typically cost to attend Pima Community College?
The average net price for undergraduate in-state students is $2,662 per year. Net price is what undergraduate students pay after grants and scholarships (financial aid you don’t have to pay back) are subtracted from the institution’s cost of attendance.

The average net price has decreased 10.4% from 2009 to 2011.

Graduation Rate

What percentage of students graduate?
6.8% of full-time students graduated within 150% of the expected time for completion and 21.4% transferred to another institution. Graduation rate data are based on undergraduate students who enrolled full-time and have never enrolled in college before. This may not represent all undergraduates that attend this institution.

Loan Default Rate

Are students able to repay their loans after they graduate?
20.6% of borrowers defaulted on their Federal student loans within three years of entering repayment.
Families typically borrow $5,986 in Federal loans for a student’s undergraduate study. The Federal loan payment over 10 years for this amount is approximately $62.50 per month. Your borrowing may be different.

To learn about loan repayment options, go to: http://studentaid.ed.gov/repay-loans/understand/plans

The U.S. Department of Education is working to provide information about the average earnings of former undergraduate students at Pima Community College who borrowed Federal student loans. In the meantime, ask Pima Community College to tell you about how many of its graduates get jobs, what kinds of jobs they get, and how much those graduates typically earn.

Visit http://www.mynextmove.org to explore what potential careers a particular postsecondary program or major prepares you to enter. The site has information about current earnings and potential growth in those occupations.

This College Scorecard has been designed by the U.S. Department of Education to provide better information to students and parents about college affordability and value. Visit http://collegecost.ed.gov for more information.