Dr. Gabi Abramac is a Fulbright Visiting Scholar at the New York University Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development. She is currently conducting research on language use, acquisition and maintenance in the multilingual Haredi society in New York. In a broader sense her research encompasses all aspects of sociolinguistic variation, language and identity, as well as migration and diaspora studies. Dr. Abramac has formerly worked for the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR). As an expert on elections in post-conflict and transitional societies, she also worked for the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE). She has been running her own Sokrat Language Institute in Zagreb, Croatia since 2000.

To reserve a seat please contact Yvonne Perez at yperez11@pima.edu
Space is limited; please RSVP by April 11, 2017.

This presentation is conducted through the Fulbright Scholar Program’s Outreach Lecturing Fund (OLF). OLF enables Visiting Scholars to share their research interests, speak about their home country, and exchange ideas with U.S. students, faculty, and community organizations. Through these lectures, universities forge relationships with the Fulbright Scholar Program, Visiting Scholars, and the Visiting Scholar’s home and host institutions.
