

2017-2018 Private Student Loan Application Instructions

What is a private student loan?

Private student loans are offered to students by third-party lenders based on personal credit rating and are used to help students with the costs of attending college. These loans may have a variable interest rate that exceeds the fixed interest rate of a Federal Direct loan. Private student loans do not always provide deferment periods and often have a shorter repayment term.

Submission of the form does not initiate the private loan process. You must begin by going to the lender of your choosing and completing their application process. Pima Community College is not involved in the recommendation or approval process of private loans.

Is this the only loan that is available to students?

No, students can receive loan funds by completing a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Students who apply for Federal Student Aid (FSA) will be assessed for eligibility of both grant and loan funding. The Federal Direct loans are federally guaranteed, do not require a personal credit rating, have a maximum fixed interest rate, and offer deferment periods and various repayment options.

Why would a student want a private student loan?

Always consult the financial aid office to make sure you have exhausted Federal aid opportunities, scholarships before borrowing private student loans.

Are there borrowing limits to this type of loan?

Yes, the student's combined awards cannot exceed their Cost of Attendance (COA). Each student is assigned a COA by the college based on many factors such as residency status, cost of tuition, books, scholastic expenses, and the student's credit hour enrollment for that semester. Consult your MyPima account at MyPima.pima.edu or an appropriate Financial Aid advisor in the Student Service Center if you would like to review your personal COA.
